

Harvey: City must approve of casino

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis city officials said Tuesday they feel confident no new casinos will be allowed in town without their blessing.
Mayor Eddie Favre said as long as the city is working on its comprehensive development plan, it should continue to urge the state Gaming Commission to defer action on proposed new casinos here.
And city gaming attorney Donald Rafferty said he'd been assured by Gaming Commission Director Paul Harvey that Bay St. Louis city officials "would be given due deference" concerning any additional casinos.

Harvey said Wednesday while he doesn't recall talking with Rafferty, the commission is not likely to approve any application for a casino in a city that doesn't want it.
The casino subject came up at the end of a long City Council meeting Tuesday night, after officials of Gulf Regional Planning Commission and a private firm, Continental Consultants of Jackson, offered to help the city finish work on its comprehensive development plan and associated zoning ordinance revisions and mapping.
Peggy Dutton, chairman of the Bay St. Louis Community Association, said she was alarmed to hear Continental officials estimate a 12- to 18-month time frame for putting the new ordinances in shape and on the books.

"I'd like to ask you what we are going to do" in the meanwhile, Dutton said. "We don't want anything coming in while we're still planning."
Owners of Dan B's restaurant and lounge recently proposed putting a casino at the foot of Main Street's intersection with South Beach Boulevard, and there are active plans to put another one on North Beach Boulevard, in the Cedar Point area. Both proposals are hotly contested by some area residents.
Earlier this month, members of the city Planning and Zoning Commission said they're near "burnout" in trying to complete the work yet needed on the comprehensive development plan and zoning ordinances that will deal with where new casinos, if any, are allowed in the city.

At the commission's suggestion, city council invited regional planners and Continental Consultants to Tuesday's meeting, to see how much assistance they could offer, and at what cost.
GULF REG. PLANNING
Jeff Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning said his public agency stands ready to help the city do any degree of planning work the city wants -- not

Seawall repair

Work to begin immediately in Waveland;
April date set for Corps project

BY MARY G. SEILEY
A major shoreline protection project along South Beach Boulevard has been given the go-ahead by federal officials in Atlanta.
"We're right around the corner from construction," said Johnny Grandison, project manager for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Mobile, Ala. He said construction work, affecting three sections of seawall, should begin by April.
But before the Corps project gets off the ground, expect to see Hancock County crews doing some emergency work elsewhere along the waterfront route.

District 1 Supervisor Robert Peterson said Monday county workers will address some deteriorating seawall areas in the Waveland vicinity which need to be repaired, immediately, but which aren't included in the Corps' plans.
"It's getting to the point we're having to do something ... the sidewalks are caving in," said Peterson.

Grandison said the Corps' South Atlantic Division Office in Atlanta last week approved preliminary plans for shoring up three stretches of the South Beach Boulevard seawall.
Plans include building a timber bulkhead along 1,000-foot long segment, just below the Highway 90 bridge. The bulkhead will be built about 10 feet in front of the existing seawall, south of the bridge.
Workers will put granular fill under the existing seawall to fill existing voids, and between the bulkhead and the seawall.
Plans also call for new riprap revetments for two sections, totaling 1,400 feet, in areas near Vacation Lane and Market Street in Waveland. The riprap will be covered with sod.
Peterson said county workers will make emergency repairs to other sections of the seawall which aren't included in the Corps project. Some additional emergency work, he said, may be so extensive that the county will have to seek construction bids.
The seawall along Beach Boulevard was built at various times between 1915 and 1928, according to the Corps.
Grandison said the protective measures the Corps has in Waveland seawall requires immediate attention

Ordinance outlaws shooting firearms

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Shooting firearms in Bay St. Louis will be outlawed by a new ordinance passed Tuesday.
The City Council also discussed limiting fireworks sales and discharge in the city limits, and agreed to ask for a Federal Communications Commission investigation of local cable television service. They also agreed to ask state officials for a 40 mile-per-hour speed limit on Highway 90, from one end of the city to the other.
The firearms ordinance, effective 30 days after passage, poses a fine of up to $500 and/or 30 days in jail for anyone shooting weapons in the city. Exceptions include police officers, and officials or citizens who have prior written permission from the mayor or chief of police.
Examples of the exceptions which may be allowed include military organizations and personnel at funerals and events held on public holidays, or at public events such as fairs and benefit shoots.

The ordinance, opposed by Councilmen Tom Farve and James Rutherford, is an offshoot of council's earlier discussion of controlling fireworks sales and discharge in the city.

FIREWORKS

Several citizens have told council they were alarmed at the firework debris -- primarily bottle rocket shells -- they found on their roofs and in their gutters after New Year's.

Council members also are upset over the proliferation of fireworks sales tents before

Case tightens in search for elusive rapist in Bay area

BY AMY PICKICH
Bay St. Louis Police have not found the rapist who struck three times in October and November last year, but Detective Tom Burleson said "a little light" was shed on the case this week that could lead to an arrest.
"The crime lab found something we didn't think we had," said Burleson.
He said he could not elaborate on what that something was, but stated it could lead to good news in the coming weeks.
Until then Burleson said they can only speculate and wait.
Burleson said there have been no reports of rape since the last attack on Nov. 20, when a 40-year-old woman was assaulted.
The other two rapes, on Oct. 3 and Oct. 21, occurred around the same time as the one on Nov. 20, in the early morning just on the comprehensive plan.

Taylor said for about $18,000 through the end of this year, the city could have a vast array of help from GRPC, ranging from grant-writing to studies on economic development, gaming, and transportation.

But Taylor declined to give specific costs of completing work on the comprehensive plan and zoning ordinances, because the city was requesting quotes from a private firm as well. Taylor said he didn't want the GRPC to be in a position of airing its cost proposal, unless sealed bids were taken.

He promised, however, his agency would emphasize public input while working on the final documents, with multiple hearings that would lead to "a community vision" of the continued city development. The end result, he said, would not be a "standard, canned" comprehensive plan.

Taylor said one advantage GRPC has in seeking the city's consulting business is its locality. "We feel that being local ... we could tend to those needs a lot more on a regular basis."

He said he'd be glad to negotiate a specific fee for work on the comprehensive plan, and he reminded the council his organization is non-profit.

Officials of Continental Consulting said the work the city needs done may take 12 to 18 months, but they didn't specify a fee amount. They said their product also would result from heavy community involvement, and would not be an "off the shelf" document.

Council President James Thriffley and planning and zoning commission chairman Les Fillingame told the planners not to view the proposal process as competitive bidding. Instead, the city is seeking professional services that don't require a bid process, he said.

Thriffley said the city would send GRPC and Continental a detailed scope of services requested, and would meet with them again Feb. 1 to talk finances and select one of them.

Completion of the comprehensive plan and zoning revisions have been shoved to the front burner, in the face of citizen concern over the prospects of additional casinos in the city.

Rafferty said he has advised City Council and the mayor against taking any position against a specific proposal, unless they wish to do so after the plans are officially aired before council.

"You would not want to be sued because you jumped to a conclusion" that would be viewed as "arbitrary and capricious," Rafferty said.

But after backers of the proposed downtown casino published a notice that they intend to apply for a gaming license, Rafferty said the mayor dispatched him to talk to Harvey with the message that the mayor and Council want to be apprised of any pending casino action in the city. He said he talked with Harvey when the Gaming Commission met in Biloxi earlier this month.

Harvey said Wednesday that the Gaming Commission would actively seek city input into any proposed casino for Bay St. Louis. And he said it's highly doubtful the commission would approve a site that a city didn't want.

Favre said that the city has an old letter on file with the Gaming Commission to the effect that since the city is amid an extensive planning process, action should be deferred on any casino proposals until that process is completed.

That makes good sense, Harvey said, as long as the process doesn't stretch on for five years or so.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Recalling the first history taught in my early days of school, it was about Christopher Columbus and his discovery of America in 1492.

A replica of the Nina is on display through Monday at the Point Cadet Marina just behind the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

On Sunday afternoon I had the opportunity to tour the Nina, even though it was very windy and cold. This makes the second visit of the Nina to Biloxi, as it was there in 1992.

In looking at the size of the craft, it is amazing of the feats of the original Nina.

I would not like the idea of crossing the Gulf of Mexico, much less an ocean on the craft.

Because of the history of the Nina, I feel it is very educational for everyone who has the opportunity to visit the Nina.

One can see the big difference in the size of crafts used some 500 years or so ago compared to today.

By the way, there were few comforts on the original Nina, everyone except the captain slept on the deck.

Crewmen report that on the original Nina, the hole was used for water, food and animals. They did not have the comforts that sailors have today.

An ambitious American engineer and maritime historian, John Patrick Sarsfield, began building a replica of the Nina in 1988.

Construction was by shipbuilders from Bahia, Brazil, who still used the design and construction techniques dating back to the 15th Century.

The Sarsfield 'Nina' was built in Valença, Brazil, using only adzes, axes, hand saws and chisels, in addition to a few naturally-shaped timbers from the local forest.

There is no question about the sturdy construction of the craft, which is 93.6 feet in length overall, beam of 17.3 feet and length on deck of 66 feet with a displacement of 100 tons.

The hours for tours of the ship start at 9 a.m. Tour prices are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for senior citizens and students. Children under age 5 who are not part of a group tour get aboard free.

I understand many school tours are planned this week on the Nina, and I am hoping all students will take advantage of the opportunity. For tour information, call 435-6320.

If you get a chance, try and visit the Nina.

If you really want to have a fun time, you may want to join up with the Mardi Gras Krewe of Hancock that follows the Nereids parade on Sunday, Feb. 6.

The deadline for entries is Sunday, Jan. 23.

Entries may be floats, marching or walking groups, dancers, maskers or other types of family entertainment groups.

For further information and an entry form, call 467-7635.

The Krewe of Hancock depends on the participation of individuals and community organizations from throughout the area.

Those who join the parade all seem to have a great time.

The Krewe of Nereids leads the parade, and it is usually 'wall to wall' of people as the saying goes.

One can throw a lot of beads during the parade down Highway 90 in the Bay-Waveland area.

Has someone else ever been mistaken for you?

Monday night, while Randy was covering the Grand Casino's opening, he was approached, not once but twice, by persons who reported seeing me downstairs playing the slot machines.

One person even commented that I did not have my camera and did not look too good. I guess the poor guy was losing.

Well, to make a long story short, I was not even anywhere close to Biloxi at the time.

I was heavy in discussion at a chamber of commerce meeting in Bay St. Louis.

By having someone mistaken as you, a person could get in serious trouble and not even know anything about it.

Congratulations are in order for Judy Roberts, The Echo's classified/legal advertising manager, and husband J.J. Roberts.

They became the proud parents of a lovely daughter Sunday morning at Hancock Medical Center.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Elected officials should not be immune to criticism

To the Editor:

Timothy O'Connor of Waveland seems to have a rather unique view of the right of freedom of speech. (See letter of Jan. 13)

He appears to believe that yelling foul at the actions of our mayor and aldermen is as bad as yelling fire in a crowded theatre. Does he really believe that elected officials should be immune from criticism?

In truth, we should remember that it is not only our right but our duty to constantly monitor our public officials and to protest loudly when they do not meet our expectations.

Also, he should note disgraceful behavior is largely in the eyes of the beholder. Public behavior towards a public official can only disgrace those who deserve being disgraced.

State PTA adopts legislative agenda

Dear Editor:

The Mississippi PTA is an organization of approximately 60,000 parents, teachers, and other pro-education individuals in our state.

As such, PTA is the largest pro-education organization in our state whose focus is upon providing quality educational and other opportunities for the children of our state. The Mississippi PTA has adopted the following priorities as its 1994 legislative program.

—Enacting of legislation and funding to support a comprehensive juvenile justice system which provides for such penalties and rehabilitation or detention services as necessary to deter violent acts at school.

—Enacting of legislation to provide state funding for the addition of two paid teacher contract days for the purpose of promoting parent involvement through parent/teacher conferences.

—Salary increases for education personnel with a long-term plan to bring and keep salaries to a level at least equal to the contiguous state average. Concurrent with professional compensation for professional service PTA will support fair and reasonable accountability measures for education personnel and for schools.

—Legislatively funded incentives to encourage minority students to enter the teaching profession.

—Raising the age for obtaining a driver's license to 16.

—A majority vote for the passage of school bond issues.

As legislative vice-president for the Mississippi PTA I would urge all parents, educators and citizens of the state of Missisissippi to let their local legislators know that the Mississippi PTA considers the above priorities to be essential to providing quality education for our children and a productive future for our state.

The Mississippi PTA will hold its annual legislative conference at the Holiday Inn Downtown in Jackson on Jan. 27. You may obtain registration information for this conference by calling: 1-800-795-6123.

Thanks for your support for quality education for all children.

Sincerely,
Gordon Walker

Lobbying expenses should be reported

Dear Editor:

There have been differing opinions expressed regarding lobbying in the Mississippi Legislature, and I feel compelled to add mine to those calling for reforms in the way such business is conducted in our state.

I have a daughter with multiple disabilities and I am a member of several organizations that strive to enhance the quality of life of people with disabilities. We develop a legislative agenda each year to promote legislation that addresses the needs and concerns of people with disabilities and their families.

We try to communicate to our legislators what those needs are and what can be done to assist individuals and families of individuals with disabilities.

In the current system, groups such as ours are at a distinct disadvantage because we have no funds to compete with the resource-rich special interest groups that seem to be able to monopolize the time and attention of some of our lawmakers. I am astonished each year by the degree of influence those groups have over the legislative process!

I believe that each individual and each group should be able to keep legislators informed about how legislation impacts their issue, and I heartily support the right and privilege of everyone to involve themselves in the legislative process and encourage them to do so.

I do not have a problem with anyone having a good meal or a relaxing trip, but I do object to the loopholes in the present system that allows those lobbying activities to go unreported and therefore uncontrolled.

I believe government, especially by and for the people, should be completely open in its dealings so everyone can benefit, not just those that can buy influence. If activities are not shameful, then full disclosure of lobbying should not be a problem for anyone. I believe wholeheartedly in "the right to know."

Sincerely,
Betty Busbeau

President Clinton's foreign policy test

Prior to Congress' return and the President's just completing his first European diplomatic mission, the dominant issue in Washington has been foreign policy.

This trip, with stops in Belgium, the Czech Republic, Ukraine and Russia, was overdue. It has provided an important opportunity for the President to reaffirm the United States' vital interests in the fledgling democracies of Eastern Europe as they move toward freedom, democracy and free enterprise.

For that reason, it is critical that all Americans support President Clinton's efforts on this mission. I sincerely subscribe to the adage that partisanship in foreign policy ends at the water's edge.

The agenda of this trip illustrates America's post-Cold War problems in securing peace. History has shown that the years following conflict often are critical, where the choices either can lay the foundation for lasting peace or sow the seeds of future war.

Bosnia, the former Yugoslav republic racked by a 21-month-old ethnic civil war, was one of the thorny concerns for the President at North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) meetings in Brussels, Belgium.

The NATO leaders held open the possibility of bombing Serb forces to reopen a key airport north of Sarajevo unless they allow it to reopen to food and other relief supplies for civilians and to relieve trapped United Nations peacekeepers.

The continuation of ethnic conflict in Bosnia is destabilizing to that whole region, but I have serious reservations over where the advent of air strikes will lead.

The situation in the Ukraine, the former Soviet republic, is somewhat more promising with their agreement to dismantle 176 nuclear-tipped long-range missiles aimed at the West. Two times previously, however, since the breakup of the Soviet Union, Ukraine has pledged to turn over its nuclear arsenal to the Russians but ultimately failed to carry out these agreements.

There is a strong fear of Russian aggression among many Ukrainians as a result of Russia's past domination of their state, so the fact that Ukraine has looked to their nuclear weapons as a security blanket is understandable.

Finally, there is the situation in Russia where President Boris Yeltsin is demanding protections from NATO from Russia's re-emergent nationalist neighbors and seeking financial assistance for that country's deteriorating economy.

In pledging my support for the President's efforts on this trip, I have a few words of caution. While Americans want to do all we can to promote democratic developments in Europe, we cannot buy their freedom with foreign aid. They have to earn it on their own.

Assistance to Europe for the dismantling of nuclear weapons may be necessary, but as we have learned from the past, direct foreign aid is of a very dubious value. We must recognize that any aid must have a reasonable relationship to our national interests.

It appears that the President has handled himself well on his first European mission, and I hope his efforts produce good results. There is no doubt, however, that in the period of great challenges ahead, President Clinton's foreign policy leadership will be tested.

holidays. Council member James Rutherford said he's worried that out-of-town fireworks dealers who set up temporary tents are hurting local merchants' fireworks sales.

City officials are researching what ordinances the city already has on the fireworks subject, as they consider what needs to be added.

CABLE COMPLAINTS

In other action, Rutherford got the council to agree to complain to the FCC concerning Cablevision's local service.

He said he gets scores of telephone complaints from constituents, and has inquired with the FCC about what can be done.

The council agreed to compile the data it has on service interruptions, and ask for a formal investigation.

Meanwhile, council members agreed that now's the time to ask for a uniform speed limit on Highway 90, since state officials are concerned with the various speed limits on the highway through Gulfport and Biloxi.

Under the council's proposal, the Bay St. Louis limit would be 40, from the east edge of Waveland up to the city limits in the middle of the Bay bridge.

In other business, council members were briefed on an upcoming temporary relocation of the city-county library.

Evelyn Johnson, chairman of the library board, said the library has leased the McDonald building at 306 Highway 90, two doors east of the existing facility, to use while extensive renovations and new construction are underway at their own building.

She said the library will be closed Feb. 14-28, for the relocation, and bids will be sought next month for the new construction.

ON PATROL

NARCOTICS ARRESTS

According to Hancock County Narcotics Task Force Director David Stepro, four men were arrested January 18 for selling crack cocaine to officers.

Arrested were Deffred Lewis, 35, 428 Booker St., Bay St. Louis; Don Juan Jones, 36, 530 Hurley St., Bay St. Louis; Jeffrey Thomas, 30, 215 Olivari St., Waveland; and Trellis Harvey, 30, 140 Kathy Dr. in Bay St. Louis, Stepro said.

Stepro said each were charged with one count of selling a controlled substance and were held on $5,000 bond, with a hold on Harvey.

Stepro, Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay St. Louis detective Kurt Raymond purchased the controlled substance from the individuals who were arrested.

Stepro said more arrests are expected in the month-long investigation.

ROBBERY

Two men allegedly robbed a Shoreline Park man at 3:52 p.m. on Jan. 16, when he stopped in an attempt to help them with car trouble on Central Avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets, according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

William Moore of 10050 East Bayou View in Shoreline Park told officials he was threatened with a pipe and robbed of $440 and a black watch.

Moore described the men as a white male, 5'10", with brown shoulder-length hair, brown eyes and a thin moustache, wearing a maroon shirt; and a black male with short black hair and a brown eyes, wearing blue jeans and denim jacket.

Moore described the car as a dark blue Datsun, model 1984 to 1988, without a license plate.

Deputy Rita Blaize-Watson responded to the call. Deputy Glen Strong is in charge of the investigation.

Peterson said there are no suspects at this time.

mind will address the most deteriorated segments, at a total cost of some $580,000. Now that the preliminary project has been approved, he said detailed plans and specifications will be drawn for bidding purposes.

EROSION PROTECTION

One major point of the preliminary study was to meet a federal requirement that the project be economically justifiable -- the cost of protecting the highway from erosion has to outweigh the expense of losing Beach Boulevard entirely, Grandison said. The project passed that test with flying colors, he added, showing a 20-fold value.

"You can just use your imagination on what would happen if the highway were to fold, especially with the casinos down there," said Grandison.

Replacing it, he added, would cost more than $10 million. (Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino just opened at the western tip of South Beach Boulevard. Galaxy Casino is proposing a facility in the Clermont Harbor area.)

In all likelihood the first construction will be done in the Waveland segments, said

Grandison. "I recognize that portion of the highway is subject to failure. It's subject to failure at any time."

Peterson agrees. That's why he asked for county emergency work in the same vicinity several weeks ago, saying if repairs aren't done there's a possibility some of the roadway will have to be closed. He said the extent of erosion under the seawall won't be known until county workers begin digging.

"Who knows? You can't really tell until you start drilling holes through the road," said Peterson.

Grandison said the entire seawall is in bad shape. "That seawall has frankly outlived its life. Nothing is forever ... The total thing needs replacing."

Meanwhile, county officials expect to open bids Jan. 27 for a project to renew up to 5.7 miles of beachfront with sand, from Washington Avenue to Vacation Lane. How much of that work is done depends on contractors' bid prices.

Officials hope that project will be in progress sometime next month.

MANAGER'S REPORT

Paul Montjoy tells us that the program of improvements for Diamondhead in 1993, along with the approved budget for non-operating expenses in 1994, puts us in top flight condition. Most of the really heavy work has been accomplished.

The program approved for 1994 and tentatively approved for 1995 and 1996 shows that, operating within our revenues we can continue to improve Diamondhead for the betterment of all its members even in the face of dramatic increase of construction activity. It's so good to hear positive things about our community.

LITTER FREE

Hancock County's Chamber of Commerce sign "Litter Free and Proud to Be" is saying "Let's Do More in 94."

Ask your clergyman about whom you can help. Clergymen almost always know of individuals who are struggling through difficult periods of life, but most of them don't have the time personally to attend to everyone who needs some care.

Buy two or three fresh flowers, carnations, etc. and as you go about your daily errands, select two or three parked cars and leave one under the windshield wiper.

On a hot day, buy a six-pack of cold sodas and give them to a work crew or others working outside.

On a cold day pick up several large coffees to go, lots of cream, sugar and stirrers and give them to those working outside.

Be casual. Just drive up, hand the things to one of the workers and drive off in a cloud of dust.

While clipping coupons for items you want, clip some for things you don't want and leave on the grocery shelves in front of the products.

ASK THE V.A.

By Donald Mauffray

Q. I am a veteran who receives VA compensation and medical care at both a VA outpatient clinic and VA hospital for a non-service-connected condition. Can VA bill my health insurance company for reimbursement for such care?

A. Yes. All veterans applying for medical care at a VA facility are asked if they have medical insurance. VA is authorized by law to bill insurance companies for the cost of medical care furnished to veterans, including service-connected conditions covered by health insurance policies.

Q. My ex-husband is receiving VA compensation benefits and is claiming our three children as dependents. However, he provides me with no financial support for our children. Can the Department of Veterans Affairs help me?

A. Yes. You can apply for an apportionment of the VA benefits your ex-husband is receiving for dependent children he claims but are in your custody. Call the nearest VA Regional Office at 1-800-827-1000, or your local veterans service officer at 467-2100, for help in filling out an application.

Compensation available to divorced parents

Q. I am a divorced veteran. Can I remove my ex-wife as beneficiary on my VA life insurance policy?

A. Yes. Your Government Life Insurance contract gives you the right to designate or change your beneficiary at any time. You can do so without the beneficiary's consent or knowledge. Call at 1-800-669-8477, or locally, 467-2100, to request a form to change your beneficiary.

Q. My VA pension is being deposited directly into my bank account. How can I change it to my new bank?

A. Ask your new bank to help you complete SF1199A (Direct Deposit Sign Up Form) and send it to your VA regional office for processing. Do not close your old account until the direct deposit starts at the new bank, which should take between 30 and 60 days.

Q. What is the advantage of having my military retirement pay reduced by the amount of my VA disability compensation?

A. Disability compensation is not subject to income tax, as is regular retirement pay.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1994

It's carnival time!

BY AMY PICKICH

As the aroma of king cake fills the air, that can only mean one thing. It's carnival time! Krewe and carnival organizers have a number of events planned leading up to the big day, February 15.

NEREIDS

The 28th annual Krewe of Nereids ball is Saturday, January 22 at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum, by invitation only. The parade will roll February 6.

In keeping with carnival tradition, the krewe does not reveal the theme or king until the ball. The queen's identity is never revealed.

The Krewe of Nereids takes its name from the mermaid daughters of Queen Doris and the sea god, Nereus, of Greek mythology. Popular figures in Greek literature, the Nereids inhabited both salt and fresh water. They were known for their kindness and friendliness toward people.

Organized in 1966 by a group of business and professional women in Waveland, the Krewe of Nereids today draws its membership from the entire Mississippi Coast and beyond.

Nereids is the only krewe on the Coast to own its floats and den.

DIAMONDHEAD

The 1994 Krewe of Diamondhead parade will roll Saturday February 12 at 1 p.m. This year's theme is "Diamondhead Salutes Broadway."

Bill and Billie Bahner of Diamondhead will reign as king and queen.

After the parade there will be a party at the Diamondhead Country Club with music by Bo & Dee.

Hancock County tax assessor/collector Edward D. Murtagh will serve as grand marshal.

All entries must register with parade lieutenant Chris Arnos prior to the parade. Call Arnos at 255-7297 for details.

ST. PAUL

The St. Paul Carnival Association parade, themed "Take a number please," is set to roll February 13 in Pass Christian.

King Steely Beard and Queen Kathleen Mays will reign over the annual parade.

The grand ball is set for February 12 at 8 p.m. with entertainment by Dr. Rock and The Interns. For ticket information call 452-7359.

Carnival is one of the three major fund-raisers during the year to benefit St. Paul Catholic School in Pass Christian.

REAL PEOPLE

The Krewe of Real People will roll on Mardi Gras Day, Feb. 15. Krewe captain Charles Johnson announced the theme for the 13th annual ball and parade, "Kids at Heart."

The ball is set for 9 p.m. February 5 at the Hancock County Civic Center, with entertainment provided by Starzz. Tickets are $10 each and can be purchased from any krewe member.

Entries for the parade are now being accepted.

For tickets or information call Johnson at 467-8482 or president Queen Williams at 467-0844.

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana has been named grand marshal.

KREWE OF KIDS

The 16th annual Krewe of Kids parade is set to roll February 5 at 1 p.m. with Hancock County Tax Assessor-Collector Edward Murtagh as grand marshal.

This year the krewe's theme for the parade, which originated in Cedar Point, is "Paws and Pa-Pa's."

Murtagh is the father of eight, grandfather of 15 and great-grandfather of two.

Children can ride bikes, skate, be pulled in wagons or pushed in wheelbarrows. No motorized vehicles are allowed, with the exception of the king, queen and grand marshal.

The parade will begin at North Bay Elementary, proceed down Dunbar Avenue, toast at the Dunbar Residential Care Center, turn onto Boardman Avenue to A Street, and turn left on Dunbar where Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre will present the royalty with proclamations. The krewe will then proceed back to North Bay, where it will disband.

Girl and Boy Scout troops and marching groups of all kinds are invited to participate. Everyone is invited to attend.

A drawing will be held to select royalty for the event. Children aged 5 to 11 are eligible. The deadline for the drawing is Monday, January 24.

To enter send name, age and phone number to Krewe of Kids, 1005 Dunbar Ave., Bay St. Louis, Miss., 39520.

Sea Camp

Pre-registration underway for '94

Pre-registration has begun for the 1994 sessions of Project Marine Discovery Sea Camp at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi.

Eight one-week sessions are scheduled for children ages 6 to 12 — June 6-10, June 13-17, June 20-24, June 27-July 1, July 4-8, July 11-15, July 18-22 and July 25-29.

Additionally, the June 20-24, June 27-July 1 and July 11-15 sessions will be open to 13- and 14-year-olds as well.

A charge of $100 for ages 9-14 and $90 for ages 6-8 covers instructional costs and materials, transportation and admission fees. Campers provide their own lunches, snacks and drinks.

Sea Camp, initiated in 1988 by GCRL and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, uses boat trips, field excursions, hikes, films, arts and crafts, laboratory demonstrations, films, aquarium tours and hands-on activities to acquaint young people with the marine environment and coastal resources.

Last summer, 1,385 children from 25 states and two foreign countries participated in Sea Camp. Because of the program's popularity with children from other areas, local parents are encouraged to register their children as soon as possible.

Sea Camp is one component of GCRL's Project Marine Discovery, recognized in 1993 as the nation's top program in the area of marine and coastal resource protection by Renew America, a non-profit organization which identifies, verifies and promotes environmental initiatives.

For more information, call the Marine Education Center and Aquarium at 374-5550.

GCRL plans spring teacher mini-camps

Elementary and secondary educators will have an opportunity to enhance their knowledge of the coastal environment through four teacher mini-camps being offered this spring by the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium.

"Florida's Marine Habitats" will be offered for the first time April 4-8. Participants will be housed at Florida State University's Marine Laboratory at Turkey Point while they learn about carbonate sediments, mangrove swamps, and tropical fish and invertebrates at the laboratory and at St. George's Island and the Appalachian National Estuarine Reserve. "Wetlands and Maritime Forest," scheduled for April 27-29, will be headquartered at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park campus in Long Beach. This session provides a hands-on exploration of plants that signal habitat changes in the water cycle from fresh to brackish to saltwater. A canoe trip will supplement classroom and laboratory periods.

"Beach and Barrier Island" will be offered May 4-6 at the GCRL's J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi, with lodging provided on GCRL's main campus in Ocean Springs. This program will provide an overview of the beach, salt marsh, barrier island, estuarine and open sea environments of the northern Gulf of Mexico through field explorations and classroom sessions.

"Chandeleur Islands" is scheduled for May 11-13 and will give teachers an opportunity to explore grassbeds and submerged meadows and study dune ecology of an offshore island. Participants will stay on a houseboat and have the opportunity to snorkel as well as to explore the island on foot.

Class sizes are limited. Programs qualify for reimbursement under the Dwight D. Eisenhower Mathematics and Science Education Act for participating school districts. Educators should contact the MEC&A at 374-5550 for more information.

HHS offers GED classes

Hancock High School is offering classes to help prepare students for their general equivalency test, or GED.

The GED is designed to give a certificate to any person who did not complete high school with a diploma. In many instances, the GED can be used in places normally requiring diplomas, including two-year colleges, some branches of the armed services and certain jobs.

Classes at Hancock High School teach the skills necessary to get a 45 average required to pass the GED test. Students are able to brush up on their weaknesses and learn to write an essay.

Lois Abrams teaches GED classes on Monday and Tuesday mornings from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the high school. Mr. Charles Robinson has classes on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6-9 p.m.

The GED tests a student's ability to perform in high school subjects, such as English grammar, science, math, literature and social studies. The English grammar score is an average of the objective grammar test and a 200 word essay. Anyone who fails the essay must repeat the entire test and pay another $15, the charge to take the test. However, if one passes the essay and fails another field, he can repeat the failed subject test for $4 each.

Students may enter the HHS classes at any time as each student receives individual attention. The needs of the student are determined by tests administered upon entrance. These tests help the student learn his strengths and weaknesses. Many students show that they are ready to take the GED test after completion of the preliminary diagnostic tests. For more information call Ms. White at 467-2251.

Gulf Park expands accounting offerings

Mississippi Gulf Coast accounting students can earn an advanced degree and satisfy new state requirements for the Certified Public Accountants' exam at home beginning in the fall.

The University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Park campus will add six advanced-level accounting courses to its curriculum next fall to enable students to seek a master's of professional accountancy degree without having to travel to the Hattiesburg campus for classes.

Homework help is a call away.

A Homework Hotline to assist local students with answers to homework questions is now a phone call away at 467-2157.

Teachers or interested persons are needed to man the hotline on a rotating basis Monday through Thursday from 4 until 8 p.m. For more information, call Theresa Braud, 467-2446.

Caregiver support

Programs offered for families affected by memory disorders

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association is offering a range of opportunities for education and encouragement of residents dealing with the effects of memory loss.

Caregiver support groups meet monthly to provide practical information on topics of interest, including coping skills, consumer information on in-home and residential care, and research developments. These groups are led by trained facilitators and are open to the public.

Caregivers for persons with any type of dementia, including Huntington's, Pick's, Parkinson's and Creutzfeldt-Jakob's diseases and multi-infarct (stroke) dementia will find the group's activities relevant.

A telephone support network will offer contact with other caregivers to those who are unable to attend regular support group meetings. A monthly newsletter is sent upon request to professionals and family members who care for dementia patients.

On Jan. 20, the chapter will hold a morning coffee for people with memory impairment. A video program on coping techniques will be shown, and there will be opportunities for informal networking. Registration is required.

The cause of Alzheimer's disease is presently unknown. Symptoms include a gradual memory loss, disorientation, personality change, impairment of judgment and loss of language skills.

An estimated 4 million American adults are affected, and more than 100,000 people die of the disease annually. The cost of care is estimated to exceed $80 billion each year, the majority of which is borne by patients and their families.

Local services are funded by contributions and proceeds from two annual events, the fall Memory Walk and December Sounds of the Holidays.

Volunteers interested in participating in 1994 activities should contact the office for information prior to the Jan. 27 organizational meeting.

A 48-hour respite care training course will be offered by the chapter in early spring.

Information on services and activities is available by calling 867-6251.
